Harris Teeter's dedication to its shoppers dates back to 1960 when the company was founded through the merger of two regional grocery stores committed to customer service. Almost 50 years and over a hundred of store openings later, customer service remains a top priority.

In addition, Harris Teeter promises to provide its shoppers with a wide variety of top-quality products at a fair price. Harris Teeter believes in giving back to the communities where its shoppers and associates live and work. During its 2008 fiscal year the company donated over $5.7 million and 3.2 million pounds of food throughout its marketing areas.

So, what kind of neighbor is Harris Teeter? One who gives back to the community, your schools, your children, and your pocketbook. You get a fresh local food market with international flare, top-quality meats, seafood, and produce, a commitment to excellence in customer service and satisfaction, and most of all a company we feel you'd be proud to call "neighbor."
