

Salute to Business

December 2010

Front Row (left to right)

Rob Davis, Executive Vice President, Commercial Banking – Southern Community Bank and Trust

Jim Monroe, Treasurer – Southern Community Bank and Trust

Rodessa Mitchell, Vice President, Education and Membership - Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce

Scott Bauer, CEO – Southern Community Bank and Trust

Second Row (left to right)

Terry Barber, Director of Catering – Twin City Quarter

Jen Prpich, General Manager – Embassy Suites

Steve Kenney, President - QC Engraving

Third Row (left to right)

Jill Atherton, Vice President, Economic and Community Development - Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce

Jeff Green, President and Publisher – The Winston-Salem Journal

Ron Stephens, Director of Marketing – Twin City Quarter

About Southern Community Bank and Trust

Southern Community Bank and Trust opened for business in November of 1996 in Winston-Salem, North Carolina with one office and 13 employees. Since then, we have expanded to over 300 employees, a growing network of banking offices across the Piedmont Triad and surrounding communities, and a comprehensive range of financial services. Most important, our employees have demonstrated that Southern Community can grow in size without losing the special character, principles and values that have defined us since day one.

We started business with the promise that we will always be small enough to care. It's so much a part of our identity and mission that it even serves as our website address. This from-the-heart commitment to customer service - the foundation of our strategic decisions and daily actions - represents the spirit of Southern Community and the distinctive advantages we believe we can offer our customers.

Our services are always provided with a sincere friendliness by people who take an interest in the people they serve. We hope you will give us the opportunity to show you a better way of banking. Visit us at www.smallenoughtocare.com to learn more.